Earth Day

Col. Rod Gibson, 65th Air Base Wing Commander, gets some help planting a tree April 24 from some base youngsters. The tree was planted between Bldg. T-100 and the Top of the Rock Club in honor of both Earth Day and the 125th anniversary of Arbor Day.

New rules in place for traffic circles

SSgt. Rosaire Bushey
Editor

Drivers may want to take even more care than normal when approaching traffic circles on the island because of a new rule affecting right of way.

Until recently, the Portuguese road code, according to Joe Raposo, 65th Air Base Wing Safety Office, said that people outside the circle were to yield right of way to people already in the circle.

"Recently we had a change in the road code," Raposo said. "Now it is nearly opposite the way it used to be in that people in the circle must yield right of way to those on their right - or those who are entering the circle."

The rule, the safety staff feels, could cause some problems for drivers who are used to yield-to-the-left circles.

"In the states where there are traffic circles and in many other European countries, we are used to yielding to those already in the circle," said Maj. David Conley, chief of safety. "This change will represent a challenge for many people who, by instinct, go through traffic circles."

Conley said that defensive driving is now more important than ever as people must "re-learn" a basic piece of road navigation.

"The best thing for people to do is simply slow down," Raposo said. "Instead of just barreling into a circle, take a moment to think about what the rules are and how it affects you. Ask yourself who you have to yield to and when, and then proceed carefully. You can't go wrong by driving defensively," he said.

Goal Day Update

The following are the scores and what they represent for goal day information: Outstanding, 10; excellent, 9-7; satisfactory, 6-4; marginal, 3-1; and unsatisfactory, 0.

Status/score

WEEK 1 WEEK 2 WEEK 3 WEEK 4 WEEK 5

Fuel response time - Goal 7 minutes

7.83/2 6.96/10 6.46/10 7.07/9

IMPAC usage - Goal 75 percent

72.5/8 73.2/8 74.7/9 75.6/10

DNA testing - Goal 95 percent

91/7 92/8 94.03/9 96/10

Duty status - Goal 90 percent

89/9 100/10 100/10 96/10

To earn a down day the wing must meet all four goals by the end of week five. If the goals are met the down day will be taken in May.

May's goal day metrics include maintaining 90 percent duty status, seven-minute fuel response time and 75 percent IMPAC card usage as well as: decreasing warehouse inventory by three percent, increasing blood borne pathogen training to 95 percent (for 65th Medical Group personnel only), and achieving a 95 percent on-time rate for decorations to MPF.

Family day care provider appreciation day: May 8

Commentary by Lou Denham

Family member support flight chief

Family Child Care Provider Appreciation Day is May 8.

This day reminds those of us who have children in family day care homes to say thank you to those providers who make it possible for us to go to work, the gym, meetings or just have time to ourselves.

These providers must go through a three-day training class, along with CPR training, first aid classes, food handlers and fire extinguisher training.

Their homes are constantly under inspection by the FDC coordinator, fire, safety and military public health. They must find the time to study and pass 15 family day modules and meet all the requirements of the family day care panel. The care that they provide is under the same tight guidelines that are found at the child development center and school age program.

These providers offer an alternative to large group care. They can only have a maximum of six children at any time. They are required to provide developmental programs and proper nutrition. Since the care is provided in their homes their whole family is involved.

Please take the time to show your appreciation for them and their families for providing a safe and fun place for your children.

Current family day care providers - Lana Siewert, Ext. 28199 and Diane Johnson, Ext. 28870.

The next family day care provider training class will be May 11, 12 and 13. For more information, call Ext. 23188 or 21334.

Col. Rod Gibson, 65th Air Base Wing Commander, presents a Meritorious Service Medal to Capt. Evangeline Cheeks, 65th Air Base Wing, Monday.

Beira Mar speed

My concern is about the speed limit at the Beira Mar gate and the road there. There have been numerous occasions when my son and I have been crossing the street and a speeding car has been in sight. I always look both ways when crossing, but when clear I literally have to hurry through the cross walk. Is there any possible way speed bumps could be installed on both sides of the road to ensure safety for all pedestrians?

I share your concern about speeding cars in all areas but especially on the road outside the Beira Mar gate. In an effort to reduce speed of vehicles on that road we have repeatedly asked local officials for help to include allowing the installation of speed bumps. I'm confident we will get eventual approval, but the process has been slow. The road outside of Beira Mar gate is the exclusive jurisdiction of the Praia Police and we've had some success in Praia's increased monitoring of traffic on that road while we continue pursuing speed bumps. In the interim, Team Lajes needs to be aware of this hazard and I urge all members to be extra careful when entering the road.

Social actions:

Helping you to succeed

SSgt. Andre America Social actions

The wing social actions office provides a variety of services to the Air Force community. We provide assistance and education to commanders, civilians and active-duty members and their families involving equal opportunity and treatment.

Part of this assistance is resolving conflict within the workplace. There are several methods to addressing issues of discrimination and sexual harassment. The most common way to address an issue is through your chain of command. This is highly encouraged and usually the best method, however there are times when an individual will not feel comfortable using the chain of command. This is where social actions can help.

Someone who perceives they've been discriminated against must have an opportunity to have their concerns addressed. The social actions office provides two options: file a formal complaint or address the situation informally.

When the individual brings an allegation of discrimination to the social actions office, an appointment is set up with an EOT technician. Additionally, the complainant is asked to provide a written statement describing the allegations in accordance with AFI 36-2706, to determine if an EOT violation has occurred. If the allegation is not an EOT issue, it is referred to the appropriate agency. If the issue appears to be an EOT violation, formal and informal options are explained to the complainant. As stated previously, the chain of command is the best starting point to resolution. However, the decision of what option to use rests with the individual.

Informal resolution -

Almost all discriminatory situations can be addressed at the individual, supervisors, first sergeant or commander level. As taught in the EO Awareness 2000 class, everyone has a role in equal opportunity. Early identification and open communication are the essential key to resolving issues. Commanders' policy letters reiterate the Air Force's goal for equality in the workplace and emphasize the organizational standards. Mediation is also a valuable tool available.

Formal resolution - When an issue cannot be resolved using informal methods, a formal complaint clarification is conducted. A complaint clarification is a process of gathering information for the commander. The clarification assist the commander is determining whether a preponderance of evidence exist that unlawful discrimination occurred. The formal complaint clarification process is composed of 10 steps.

When does the bullfight season begin and can you explain the whole process of this cultural event?

The street bullfight season on Terceira Island begins tonight and will continue through Oct. 15. This type of bullfighting is a local custom that continues to be very popular and a very important part of all festivities around the island.

The bulls (there are usually four) are hauled in crates from the bull ranches located in the center of the island to the village where the bullfight is to be held. The truck transporting the bulls is usually preceded by a motorcade with villagers who went to the ranches to participate in the bulls' selection process.

Later in the afternoon (usually at 6 p.m.), a blast that sounds like fireworks signals the bull is in the street and it's time for people who don't want to play matadors to seek refuge. The bull, with a rope tied around his neck and secured by about eight men dressed in white, starts pursuing his "foes" trying to find a good target on which to vent his anger.

After some brave men in the crowd tease and harass the bull for about half an hour, the bull is pulled back into the crate by the rope handlers for a well deserved rest. Two blasts signal that it's safe to walk in the street again until another bull is released.

Another tradition connected with the street bullfights is the popular food stands called "Tascas." In these stands one can find some of the island's best known local wine, beer, seafood and other island specialties. I encourage all the Americans to see a bullfight, but don't let fun interfere with safety. Every year people are gored by the bulls and end up in an hospital bed with serious injuries. There have also been some fatalities in the past because people misjudged the

Although some carefree (foolish?) souls will taunt the bull in a seemingly reckless manner, U.S. military members and their families, as well as DOD civilians, may not participate directly in a bullfight. People should take refuge along high walls. A bull can easily jump a wall of only a few feet. Fences, no matter how tall, don't generally withstand much punishment from a one-ton bull, so climbing them is not considered a good idea.

bull's aggressive capabilities.

Please remember that U.S. Forces Azores regulations prohibit U.S. military members, civilians and family members from actively participating in any type of bullfighting on the island.

When viewing a street bullfight, choose a high place, out of the bull's range. Be careful and use common sense.

Watch this column for places and times of future bullfights throughout the season. The community center also currently has tickets for sale for the arena bullfight which is held in June.

• Initial contact • Decision is made by complainant to file a formal complaint • the complainant must sign an AF Form 1587 to begin the process. Once this is done the complaint cannot be withdrawn without the consent of the chief of social actions. The commanders and the complainant and the alleged offender are advised of the complaint • Conduct the clarification • A legal review is conducted to insure the complaint clarification procedures have been followed properly. This assists in the overall quality of the clarification • Advise commanders of findings • Commander takes action • Social action briefs the complainant of the outcome • If the complainant or the alleged offender are not satisfied, they may file an appeal. The appeal process is applicable only to formal complaints of unlawful discrimination or sexual harassment filed by military members • After all steps are exhausted, the case file will be returned to social actions for final review by the chief of social actions and closure.

The most important issue in either process is the resolution of the individual's concerns. No matter the method an individual chooses to address their concern, the social actions office will be there to provide professional assistance. The social actions office is here, "Helping you to succeed."

65th Medical Group expands hours, services

Maj. Kimberly Cox
Medical Services Flight commander

It is time once again to update the Lajes community on the capabilities of the 65th Medical Group.

Beginning Monday, the medical group will offer a women's health clinic and an expanded-hours family practice clinic. Also beginning Monday, the flight surgeon's clinic will relocate to Bldg. T-416 and the physical therapy clinic will relocate to Bldg. T-425.

The following are the hours for clinic operations and a chart on the next page can be cut out for easy reference: All hours are Monday through Friday unless noted.

- Active-duty sick call: 7:15 a.m.
- Flight surgeon's office active-duty sick call: 7:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.
- Family practice clinic: 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
- Expanded hours clinic: 4:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and 7 to 11 a.m. on weekends, holidays and down days.

The expanded hours clinic will offer follow-up and urgent medical appointments from 4:30 to 9:30 p.m. on weekdays and from 7 to 11 a.m. on weekends, holidays and down days.

After 9:30 p.m. on Monday through Friday and after 11 a.m. on weekends, holidays, and down days, the clinic will be manned with an emergency ambulance response team only, with a physician on call as the primary care manager.

Angra Hospital will continue to provide emergency medical services.

The women's health clinic will offer routine obstetrical and gynecological appointments which may be scheduled by calling the appointment desk at Ext. 23261.

The 65th Medical Group Clinic closes from 2 to 5 p.m. on the first and third Wednesdays of each month; and from 3 to 4:30 p.m. on the second, fourth and fifth Wednesdays for mandatory training.

All clinics (family practice, women's health, flight surgeon, pediatric, optometry, mental health and dental) will see patients by appointment only, with the exception of active-duty sick call. The dental and optometry clinics will see sick call patients by appointment only.

The purpose of sick call is to determine a military members' ability to perform duties. This usually means those individuals with urgent problems should use this service. Active-duty sick call is considered a mandatory formation. The member needs to be in the duty uniform of the day and arrive on time.

Active-duty family members, Department of Defense members and their families, and retirees and family members of retirees are also important. The 65th Medical Group Clinic has several same-day appointments available for urgent problems like cold or flu symptoms. Same-day appointments are available from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Those who need prescription refills or appointments for recurrent or chronic conditions should schedule appointments with their primary care manager at least seven days in advance.

In the event of an emergency, members should call Ext. 911 from any phone on base, and if off-base, call Ext. 540-117.

The 65th Medical Group Clinic has two ambulances that will transport all patients who require this service; however, all non-DOD beneficiaries will receive bills for this service. Ambulance transportation is covered under TRICARE with the usual deductions and co-payments. The only emergency room available to Lajes Field is Angra Hospital and the 65th Medical Group has a memorandum of understanding with Angra Hospital to provide emergency care to our beneficiaries.

Active-duty members seeking emergency care after duty hours should contact the primary care manager on call at Ext. 23237, if possible, to obtain authorization to receive care. However, if your condition is an extreme emergency call the clinic for ambulance service or go immediately to Angra Hospital. Within 24-hours, after the emergency, the active-duty member or a family member must notify the primary care manager that an emergency has taken place.

Directions to the Angra Hospital

- Make a right if leaving from the main gate
- Go straight through the circle if coming off Santa Rita Hill
- Make a right at the circle (the church will be in front of you).
- Continue straight until you reach another circle
- Make a left (3/4 turn) to Angra
- Make a right onto the Angra Highway
- Follow the highway to Angra
- Approaching Angra you will pass a Mobile gas station
- Go straight through two circles
- At the third circle (with a statue) make a right
- Go straight through the stoplight intersection and straight through the next circle and the hospital will be in front of you.
- Follow the "Urgencia" signs to get to the emergency room at the back of the hospital.

Patient liaisons are available 24-hours a day to assist with translation at Angra Hospital by calling Ext. 23237.

Team Lajes members seeking emergency dental care after duty hours should contact the dental-officer-of-the-day on call at Ext. 23237. The dental officer will discuss your case with you and determine the appropriate avenue of care.

Team Lajes members seeking non-emergency care after duty hours should contact the primary care manager on call at Ext. 23237. The primary care manager will discuss your case with you and determine the appropriate avenue of care. Appropriate care could be an appointment that night or an appointment within 24-hours. The primary care manager may also direct you to Angra Hospital if your condition warrants emergency treatment.

It is the intent of the 65th Medical Group Clinic to provide the best care possible. This is accomplished by keeping people informed of the clinic's services and how to best access the appropriate care.

Anyone who has ideas on ways to improve this service may fill out a comment form available throughout the clinic or contact one of the patient advocates for assistance. For more information, call Joanne Runnels at Ext. 22372 or Maj. Kimberly Cox at Ext. 26737 or 23239.

SSgt. Rochelle Babin, NCOIC of the women's health clinic takes the blood pressure of TSgt. Nancy LaConca, at the 65th Medical Group's new Women's Health Clinic. The WHC offers routine obstetrical and gynecological appointments which may be scheduled by calling the appointment desk at Ext. 23261.

People First

General testifies on behalf of educational benefits

Testifying on Capitol Hill, Lt. Gen. Michael McGinty, Air Force deputy chief of staff for personnel, stated the case for more education program participation.

He said the service should vigorously pursue education benefits for an estimated 133,000 airmen, or 30 percent of the force, not covered by either the Montgomery GI Bill or the Veterans' Education Assistance Program.

This includes about 59,000 who never enrolled in VEAP, 19,000 who were once enrolled in VEAP but withdrew their contributions and were not authorized to convert to the Montgomery GI Bill, and 55,000 who opted not to take the GI Bill when they entered active duty.

Also, he said the Air Force should expand the Montgomery GI Bill to let airmen pursue professional certification and licenses in certain career fields.

Starting in June 1985, all active-duty airmen were automatically enrolled in the Montgomery GI Bill, upon entry on active duty. This excludes Air Force Academy graduates and Reserve Officer Training Corps scholarship recipients. New service members have 14 days from entry on active duty to disenroll from the program.

Once an active-duty person has established eligibility for the Montgomery GI Bill veteran entitlement, they are authorized a $439.84 stipend per month for 36 months of full-time training. With annual reviews, these benefits can be used up to 10 years after retirement or separation. The Department of Veteran Affairs administers the program.

Montgomery benefits can also be used on active duty after 24 months of service are completed.

There have been changes to the Montgomery program in recent years:

- Airmen with VEAP balances were eligible to switch to Montgomery Oct. 9, 1996 to Oct. 8, 1997;
- Flight training was added in 1990;
- Involuntary separating airmen may now enroll before separation; and
- ROTC scholarship recipients whose scholarship was less than $2,000 a year and who entered active duty on or after Oct. 1, 1996, may now enroll.

The Air Force provides license and certification of active-duty people in certain positions within the career fields when the specialty requires certification to do the job. There are 10 Air Force specialty codes that need certification:

- 1X1XO, air traffic control
- 1T2X1, pararescue

Superbase to reduce stress, increase retention

TSgt. Timothy Hoffman
Air Force Space Command

PETERSON AIR FORCE BASE, Colo. (AFNS) — The "superbase" concept will reduce the stress of a high operations tempo, aid in getting retention rates back up and help stretch operating and maintenance money, said the Acting Secretary of the Air Force F. Whitten Peters, during his visit to Air Force Space Command Headquarters April 17.

"Our deployment rate is four times what it was during the Cold War and we only have two-thirds the people," said Peters. "Our people, deployed or at home station, are working 50- and 60-hour weeks. This is having a dramatic impact on their lifestyle and on our retention rates."

Part of the solution to this problem is the superbase concept. The Air Force will concentrate more people and equipment at select bases, especially those that are home to an Air Expeditionary Force. These bases will have the resources necessary to deal with a higher operations tempo and flat operations and maintenance budgets, the secretary said.

"I fully support more rounds of BRAC (base realignment and closure) as proposed by Defense Secretary (William) Cohen." However, Peters pointed out the superbase concept will get under way with or without BRAC.

"Retention is a serious issue and an area, quite frankly, we are not doing very well in. Plussing up for the superbase concept is one of the tools we can use to address this problem in an era of flat budgets."

Peters doesn't see much relief coming from Congress to address the pay gap between Air Force people and their civilian counterparts, but did say the Air Force would "do everything it can within its own budget" to address the problem.

Enlisted members and junior officers also related command-specific problems to the secretary during a breakfast in the base dining facility and retention was addressed several times. (Courtesy of AFSPC News Service)

Air Force to permanently retire SR-71

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AFNS) — The legendary SR-71 Blackbird, a pioneer in reconnaissance aircraft, will be permanently retired from Air Force operations.

The decision follows the secretary of defense's approval March 6 to permanently retire the aircraft following the president's line-item veto of the Defense Appropriations Act in October. Two SR-71A operational models were brought back to active duty in 1995 at the direction of Congress; two, including the SR-71B trainer model, are on loan to NASA for their high-altitude testing program; and two remain in returnable storage.

The Air Force is planning for final disposition of the airframes and associated material. Some of the SR-71's systems will be transferred to other programs. Some equipment will be transferred to NASA to support its program. Material not transferable to other programs will be disposed. (Courtesy of Air Combat Command News Service)

Youth softball

The opening ceremonies for youth softball and baseball will be held Saturday with opening games beginning at 9 a.m. at the youth center field. Games will be played every 75 minutes. The final game begins at 2 p.m. Everyone is invited to come out and watch the youth of Lajes.

With a grimace and swing that would make the Mighty Casey envious, Chiefs batter George Peters lunges for the ball in an uneventful third inning. The Chiefs made their move in the fourth scoring five.

Chiefs snare Eagles 6-4

Photos/SSgt. Rosaire Bushey

Despite having no runs scored, Eagles pitcher Rod Gibson and moral supporter Ruben Nadal charge the ump. Gibson claimed that because the ball was hit at his foot and caught in the air afterward, the batter was out. Jim Hammes waits with a bat for the ref's decision.

A huge fourth inning helped the base Chiefs defeat the uninspired Eagles 6 to 4 during Wednesday's softball game.

After three innings of what could only fairly be called monotonous play, the chiefs staged a two-out slug fest to score five runs in the fourth inning.

The footrace to homeplate began when Eagles pitcher Rod Gibson threw from homeplate to second base, discounting the base running ability of Chiefs' catcher Debra Huntley who scored from third on the ill-timed pickle attempt. From that point the next three chief batters, to include even the normally docile Dave Sutton, slapped hits around the outfield tactfully avoiding the agile glove of left-fielder D.C. Conley.

This marks the second consecutive game the Chiefs have won.

"The last time the Eagles won a game was July 4 last year," snorted Sutton. "I think Lajes will probably have its own aircraft before they win again." Gibson agreed the next game may be more difficult. "Sutton won't be here so we'll have to find a new weak spot to target."
